

Jacob Todd

Coach Jackson

History religion

21 March 2016

Forgiving the Way the World Works

If you make a mistake of fate,
please don't let me feel such hate.
I am broken down to the sound
Of people crying all around.
I really could use you here,
to rid me of this spear.
People call others painful names,
bring only hurt feeling and shame.
Why do we do these hateful acts
it is so sad to believe the facts,
that through every minute and hour
someone feels like jumping from a tower.
Why does it have to be this way,
why can't people forgive and say
just look forward to another day,
so that we can live, love and pray.
Where do all the helping hands flee,
when someone just wants to see what it is like to be free.
Every day people get pushed and shoved,
only laughed at because they confess love.
Things have changed with new inventions,
people hide behind screens with bad intensions,
they cause a boy to need an intervention,

because so many words have brought infection.

This boy was once happy and full of hope,
now all he can think of is doing dope.

Day to day he asks forgiveness from above,
he knows that there he can find love.

He isn't the only one that has been scarred,
there are more who have been beaten hard.

They have been claimed by a world filled with pain,
ashamed to be called by their own name, it's insane!

It takes time to find the word to forgive,
the way of life that people forced you to live.

The people who caused so much suffering through their crime,
now hoping for forgiveness for causing a painful time.

Forgiving is always a good start,
to reaching someone's broken heart!

Love the people who bring you to tears,
they give you the power to overcome fear.